

War Paint

Martin Fucell – November 07, 2009

Two older Native Americans were watching a War movie on TV. There were some Green Berets in the movie who were putting on green camouflage paint so that their skin wouldn't reflect in the dark.

One of the Native American's turned to the other and said; "War paint ain't what it used to be".